

Cari Rawling

Friday Bailey

Call to Action!

Learning Stories Media Project

Early Childhood Educators Cari Rawling and Friday Bailey invite you to join in an advocacy and education campaign to promote the skill and knowledge of early care and learning professionals. This will demonstrate the critical value of early care and education for young children.

Our idea is:

We all create learning stories/pedagogical narrations and send them to our local newspapers, along with photo documentation to support the story. Our hope, with current attention to the early years in recent weeks the stories will be published as letters to the editor to engage the community.

You must have parental permission to document a child and please be mindful to put your most professional work forward for submission. We hope to see your work in local papers! Take a picture and share your published work with us online! Mail a copy of your work to ECEBC to be showcased at the conference!

ATTN: Learning Stories Media Project

c/o ECEBC, 309 - 515 West Pender Street, Vancouver, BC V6B 1V5
or send to snygren@ecebc.ca

ECEBC | early childhood educators of BC

#ecematters #standingstrongtogether